Hunton & Williams LLP Receives Corporate Citizenship Award from Sodexo, Inc. Honoring “Green” Partnership

Hunton & Williams LLP is pleased to announce the firm has been chosen to receive a 2009 Corporate Citizenship Award from Sodexo, Inc. The award, which will be presented at the Sodexo Law Department’s 5th Annual Spirit of Partnership Awards reception on June 4, recognizes businesses who partner with Sodexo to further enhance its corporate citizenship initiatives.

The partnership recognized by this award not only helped make the planet a little “greener,” but also helped people in need. In June 2008, Hunton & Williams participated with Sodexo in the Easter Seals AgrAbility Program, an electronic equipment recycling effort that benefits small farmers and ranchers with disabilities. The program helps fund farm and home renovations and provides adaptive equipment so that these men and women can remain productive and maintain their way of life. Hunton & Williams is proud to have collected more than 50 boxes of recyclable items to support the program, including approximately 180 printer cartridges.

“We were delighted to partner with Sodexo on this important project that supports both our core value of helping those less fortunate and our commitment to creating a cleaner environment for all of us,” stated Wally Martinez, managing partner of the firm. “My thanks and kudos to our lawyers and staff for their enthusiastic support of this very worthwhile partnership.”
